

Election Integrity Summit

Vote fraud takes many forms, depending on the election laws in each state. Some states craft fraud-friendly absentee-ballot laws, while others facilitate voter impersonation fraud. In both cases, when lawmakers try to fix the problems, they face a barrage of racist accusations. If you've ever thought, "the lady doth protest too much," then maybe you should attend this historic event, sponsored by the newly established Election Integrity Alliance, a federation of state election integrity organizations that promote transparency and integrity in the electoral process.

Wednesday, Aug 30, from 7 to 9 P.M.

The Nikko Hotel, San Francisco, CA

Learn about civil rights violations by California officials, massive interstate double voting in North Carolina and out-of-state New Hampshire voters whose numbers were large enough to skew their primaries and change the outcome of New Hampshire's 2016 US Senate race.
