Hi, Jenn.

It has been brought to my attention that the children of Massachusetts resident Krystie Steele, a kindergarten teacher at Smyth Rd., have attended and still are attending Smyth Rd. School. Apparently, her son started in Kindergarten and is no longer in the school. Her daughter, who I'm told has an IEP, is still there. Is she or the community in which she is a legal resident paying tuition to the district for their education or are Manchester's taxpayers footing the bill? Of course, this may not be an accurate report. Please advise if so. If it is, please provide record of the tuition payments made. Inasmuch as tuition receipts are a public revenue, I expect that information to be made available. My recollection is that out of district students require board approval to attend MSD Schools. If that is correct, please provide the record of that transaction. If that's not, please refresh my memory on the relevant policies.

Thanks,

Richard H. Girard
